CAMBRIDGE – It will be an “eggstra” special day at Cambridge Farmers' Market this coming Saturday (April 4).

In celebration of the Easter long weekend, officials have a morning of shopping and crafts for children planned, as well as an egg hunt.

The market, located at the corner of Dickson and Ainslie streets, is open from 7 a.m. to 1 p.m. Egg-hunting is set to get underway at 10 a.m.

Turning to other city-run weekend events, the library will be running children's programs this coming Saturday and Monday, with public skating at Hespeler Memorial Arena (640 Ellis Rd. W.) on the Sunday, from 2 to 4 p.m.
