

Corn Festival at farmers' market Saturday

Cambridge Times | 18 hours ago

CAMBRIDGE – Farmers' Market vendors are about to get a little corny as they get set to host their own Corn Festival.

This Saturday (Sept. 10) visitors to the market, located at the corner of Ainslie and Dickson streets, can enjoy special corn-related food and activities.

Staff from the Kiwi Gastropub will be on hand cooking corn-based foods, followed by a corn roast. Proceeds from the event will be donated to the Cambridge Self-Help Food Bank.

In addition people can try the giant blow-up corn maze, see corn crafts and games or take a trolley ride around the Galt core area.

Visit www.cambridge.ca/market for more information. The market runs 7 a.m. to 1 p.m.
