

CAMBRIDGE TIMES

Cambridge invaded by gruesome, dancing zombies

Cambridge Times | Oct 29, 2016

CAMBRIDGE – An annual zombie walk through the streets of downtown Cambridge today (Oct. 28) provided some jaw-dropping entertainment, as performers invaded the Cambridge Farmers' Market to dance for crowds to the sounds of Michael Jackson's Thriller.

The participants, in various stages of decay, then took the streets for a few more flash mob performances downtown.

The annual zombie walk, performed by local dancers and members of the public, has become a much-celebrated way to usher in Halloween.

Lisa Rutledge is a Reporter/Photographer for the Cambridge Times. She can be reached at lrutledge@cambridgetimes.ca. Follow her on Twitter @LisaReporting, and the Cambridge Times on Facebook.

